PROFILE

Hi, I'm Lautaro, a 17-year-old who is passionate about web programming. I started at the age of 15 simply as a hobby, fulfilling different simple achievements, such as making a first page, an api rest, rendering a list of contents, etc. I like solving problems, teamworking and carrying out web projects. I am a self-taught person and I have no problem learning new technologies outside of my comfort zone. What I look for in a company or a place where I can work is that it be an environment in which I can continue to develop both professionally and socially; that there may be someone to help others and good team communication. I learned mainly through Udemy courses with Víctor Robles and Fernando Herrera, reading the documentation and tutorial videos I found on YouTube, as well as practicing each new thing I learned.
